

Disclosure: Dudley Pierce Baker, Founder & Editor of Common Stock Warrants owns shares of this featured company but we have not been paid or compensated in any way for the publishing of this report. This is not a recommendation to buy shares which should only be done after performing your own due diligence and/or consulting with your investment advisors.

FEATURED COMPANY PROFILE

Riverside Resources Inc.
(TSXV:RRI) and RVDSF

Riverside Resources Inc. has been one of my favorite companies primarily due to the reputation and respect in the industry for John-Mark Staude, President and CEO. I have met and visited with John-Mark on numerous occasions at various mining conferences and events and he is always the visible face for RRI as well as being open and communicative regarding the company's projects. All essential qualities investors should be looking for from the CEO in their investments.

RRI is commonly referred to as a prospect generator that basically means they use other people's monies to explore and drill on their company owned properties. Riverside Resources has managed their monies well in this market environment and they currently have $4,000,000 cash, no debt and a tight share structure with only 37 million shares outstanding and a very experienced exploration team.

Large Institutional Participation

Sprott Global Resource Investments, Rick Rule Family Trust, Adrian Day Asset Management, U.S. Global Investors, Euro Pacific Capital and Sprott Asset Management make up an impressive list of shareholders with current total holdings of approximately 35% of outstanding shares. As well John-Mark Staude owns 1,183,460 and additional stock options for 575,000 shares.

Properties (United States, Canada and Mexico)

Interested investors should visit the company's website and their latest Corporation Presentation for complete details, but properties include gold, silver, copper and iron ore with numerous strategic partners including Antofagosta Minerals, S.A., Hochschild Alliance and Morro Bay Resources as a joint venture partner.

Riverside is well positioned to acquire distressed assets, deliver drill programs and discovery chances, while limiting shareholder dilution.

RRI is a company that should be on your short list of resources companies to consider adding to your portfolio which I believe has potential for 1,000% plus gains within the next 36 months. Again, I currently own shares in RRI and this is not a recommendation to buy. Before buying shares you are advised to perform your own due diligence and/or consulting with your investment advisor.

Dudley Baker, in addition to owning a portfolio of stock warrants, currently comprising about 15% of his portfolio owns common shares in many other companies such as RRI which can be possible '10 baggers' when the resource bull market resumes. Interested readers can get a Trial Subscription, with CommonStockWarrants.com for as low as $1 for a 7-day access.